FROM THE NATIONAL CAPITOL.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16, 1873.

Credit Mobilier is the prevailing topic, but the most of those who have hitherto been accused of owning stock therein, have been able to clear their skirts very handsomely. Speaker Blaine denies that he ever owned a share directly or indirectly in any shape, manner or form. Vice President Colfax owns up that he did subscribe for $2,000 worth, but as he became convinced that litigation would follow the operations of the Company, he drew out, minus $500 that Oakes Ames forgot to pay back, which he actually paid on account of his purchase. Some of the stock went to Bingham, of Ohio—several members had a little or their friends had it, and the only Congressman who got much and wanted more, was the Democratic Representative from New York city, who was owner of one hundred shares. He promised to take care of the Democratic side of the House if he could only be well stocked with Credit Mobelier, and he had more than anybody, yet, like Oliver Twist, he cried for "more." Brooks was one of the Government Directors of the Union Pacific Railroad at the time, and his case, viewed as a corruption, grows enormous when we consider that circumstance, and, further, that his party yet howls about the venality of the Republicans and charges that Republican members were bought up with this stock to let the Union Pacific Company go without paying interest on the bonds loaned to it by the Government. It is a trifle amusing that when we come to test the question by investigation the facts implicate a leading Democrat more than anybody else. Another committee has been appointed to examine into the relations between the Union Pacific Company and Credit Mobelier, and the development business still goes on.

COLORADO.

The admission of Colorado is urged very strongly, and it may be possible that this Congress will pass an enabling act. The Territory has near 100,000 inhabitants and its mineral resources are being rapidly developed, but its admission would leave Utah knocking loudly at the door with even greater claims as to population and mineral resources, and we don't just yet want the Saints occupying bigamous seats in the United States Senate. Two representatives of polygamy would be more than that honorably body could stomach.

BANKING.

Senator Buckingham made a speech to day on a bill lately introduced by him, that provides for free banking, and contains certain provisions which he claims will lead to the early resumption of specie payments.

Senator Corbett lately introduced a bill to amend the national currency act, limiting the actual liabilities of any bank to one tenth of its actual paid up stock, and defining what stock shall be considered as borrowed money.

INDIAN APPROPRIATIONS.

The bill making appropriations to carry on the Indian service has lately been under consideration in the Senate, and Thurman of Ohio took occasion to launch denunciations against the President's Indian policy—which is merely a Democratic habit, you know. The Indian service demands less this year than last, and no doubt the expenditures—which are enormous now owing to the recent pacification of hostile tribes—will decrease steadily hereafter.

The Modoc war question is commanding much interest here, and any news relating to it, or facts concerning the Modocs are duly appreciated.

The Senate has finally passed the Indian appropriation bill to-day with numerous amendments, having given it attention for four days past. It has cut down the appropriation for the Sioux Indians one-third—$900,000, instead of $1,350,000—and has also provided for a board of inspectors, five in number, to travel through the different Superintendencies and investigate the management of the respective Superintendents and all the agents. These inspectors to receive $5,000 salary and mileage. This board, if composed of the best material, will detect all abuses in the Indian service and provide for the correction of them.

Stewart, of Nevada, wished to make military officers inspectors of the Indian service; Nye, on that, denounced the whole system and favored the abrogation of all Indian treaties; then Senator Corbett made a few remarks upon the obligation of the government to the Indians as the original owners of the soil, and showed that great as was the expense of supporting the Sioux and other plains tribes, we were thereby enabled to save many times the amount by decrease of the army and the preservation of peace. Beef and flour costs as much less than would powder and ball.

PORT ORFORD HARBOR OF REFUGE.

The Senate has unanimously passed a resolution asking the Secretary of War for any information on file in the War Department relative to Port Orford in Oregon as a harbor of refuge. It is hoped that the report of Maj. Robert in favor of the erection of works to make that point a safe harbor will be sufficient to induce the incorporation of an item of appropriation therefor in the River and Harbor appropriation bill.

OUR INDIAN WAR CLAIMS.

Senator Corbett's resolution, adopted by the Senate, asking the Secretary of War for information concerning the Indian War Claims of our war of 1855 and 1856, called from that department a report as to the Indian War Claims of 1854, and upon being asked to supply the actual information desired, the officer to whom the matter was referred by the Secretary replies to our Senator that the accounts are so mixed that he cannot separate them. Now it so happens that the payments made on the 1854 claims are said to have been more than was just. So the War Department seems to hold, and as a consequence the report is not favorable, and the claims of 1855 and 1856 are hampered unjustly by being compounded with those of 1854. Whether anything can be reached this session to settle that matter in favor of reasonable compensation of claimants is very uncertain.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.

I spent an hour two days since going over the Government printing office. It is an immense building, four stories high, in the form of an L, one side being about 300 feet long, and the other perhaps 200. It is about the only public building here that has no show about it. It is not yet large enough to answer the needs of the service, for while it is the largest printing establishment in the world, it is still not capable of accommodating all the Government work, part of which is done outside. The lower floor is used in part as storage room for paper and material, and the largest room—about 300x50 feet, I should think—is filled with presses of all sizes and descriptions, from the great Bullock press for stereotype work to the common eighth medium Gordon. Of these presses there are one hundred and seventy-five in this one room. Most of them are constantly at work. They are fed by ladies, some of whom are young and handsome, while other some are verging toward age. The work done in this building comprises all the blanks for the Patent Office, Postoffice, Treasury and Interior Departments, and is sent to the uttermost part of the United States. The printing for the Supreme Court and the work of Congress, and the reports and works printed for the Departments all amount to so much that there are fifteen hundred regular employes in the building the year round. All the binding is performed on the spot. Much work has to be stereotyped, and that is another branch of the business. A great proportion of the employes are females. The compositors are all men, however; at least were as far as I could observe. It is claimed that the business is conducted to the best advantage, and effects a saving to Government.

MISCELLANY.

I heard Brot Harte the other evening lecture on the Argonauts of 1849, and he was successful as to the matter of his discourse which was in his happy style of characterization and delineation, and was interspersed with anecdotes as illustration. The manner of it was not very felicitous, as he spoke without especial rhetorical finish, and his position was somewhat uneasy. The audience was much interested and well pleased. It was characteristic of the man that we had to wait twenty minutes after the time for his appearance. It was rather surprising that he came at all on the day first announced.

An act has passed Congress for the relief of Lieut. James A. Waymire, giving him pay from Feb. 27, to April 3, the first being the date of his actual service and the last the date of his commission. Lieut. Waymire was private secretary to Gov. Gibbs, was in the regular army until 1869, at Silver City, Idaho, has been reporter of the California legislature for several years, and is now stenographic reporter for the Supreme Court of California, and resides since last winter, in Sacramento.

The weather is clear and cold, and we have genuine winter again. This weather is friendly to the spread of that pestilence, the small pox, which is very prevalent amongst us—is in fact in every section of this city, and deaths occur almost daily.

PERSONAL.

Hon. J. G. Wilson, our Congress-elect, arrived here yesterday noon. I met him at the Hall of Representatives. He is looking quite thin, and ascribes it to a severe attack of rheumatism with which he has been afflicted.

OREGON.

A Lodge of the degree of Rebekah will soon be organized at the Dalles.

The sickness lately reported so prevalent in Douglas county, is abating.

Hon. David Busby, of Douglas, is reported seriously ill of typhoid fever.

A festival given by the ladies of the P. E. Church at Jefferson last week netted $40.

A man named Thompson died of delirium tremens at Eugene City, on Tuesday of last week.

Eugene City claims to have a population of 1,500, and the churches are worth $5,000 or over.

At the Methodist Episcopal Church at Salem the revival continues. Every night there are new accessions.

The Oil Company at Salem has now under contract some 6,000 acres of flax crops for 1873; principally in Linn county.

It is thought that large numbers of fish will pass up the river through the locks at Oregon City, and that the piscatorial business above the falls will be much better than heretofore.

Corvallis College is now enjoying great prosperity. Every county in the State, we believe, is now represented in the State Agricultural Department. Spring session opens March 18th.

A much larger area of grain is being sown in Douglas county than ever before. The farmers think by raising more grain they can hold out better inducements to buyers and cause grain to bring a better price.

The troops captured five Indian ponies loaded with government hard bread in the Modoc fight. It is supposed this hard bread must have been captured or stolen from the troops that came from Camp Bidwell some time ago.

Says the Corvallis Democrat: "We learn that a son of Henry Johnson, living three miles west of Albany, in this county, met with a painful accident while felling a tree on Saturday last. He was caught beneath the tree in some manner, and had his leg broken and his shoulder fractured."

From the Plaindealer: "We learn that the last blast made in the Excelsior lodge in Bohemia at a depth of fifty feet threw out rock that assays $2,000 to the ton. If these mines were in California or White Pine, they would not long remain undeveloped, but being in Oregon they attract no attention."

Next Saturday, February 1, 1873, at the Court House in Corvallis, is the time and place fixed for the meeting of the farmers of Benton county, and those adjoining, for the "purpose of organizing a Farmers' Club, and considering the practicability of combination among farmers in storing, shipping and disposing of their crops especially grain, and for other purposes."

A petition signed by numerous citizens of Yamhill county has been filed in the Executive Office, asking for the pardon of Presley Hall, a convict in the State Penitentiary. Hall was convicted of manslaughter, for the killing of his father, and sentenced April 17th, 1869, for a term of ten years. The petition is made on the ground that Hall was not of sound mind at the time of the killing.

They have got a poet in the Benton county jail. The editor of the Democrat, who has visited this incarcerated genius, says: "We visited him the other day, when he read and sung us several of his compositions, which contain both sentiment and rhyme. His music is of that plaintive order calculated to arouse the sympathies of his auditors. He appears to bear his incarceration with a light heart."

Mr. Geo. W. Carey of Polk county, informs the Mercury that large quantities of grain have been sown by the farmers of that county during the present season, and that the early prospects for large crops were never more flattering than at this time. Mr. Carey says that the appearance of the fields, and all vegetation in the country, reminds us more of April or May than the bleak mid month of winter.

The Roseburg Plaindealer says: "By a letter from James Sterling, of Oakland, dated the 18th, we regret to learn that the Canadian horse disease has broken out in the northern part of Douglas county. Mr. Hendricks, of Walker valley, lost six horses, Mr. Mowyer a fine stallion, and Messrs. Long, McKinney and others, of Yoncalla, had several sick which were likely to die, as no remedy has yet been found."

The Yreka Journal says: The fight with the Modocs may now be considered as only just commencing, as a large force has been called for by General Wheaton, and it is also believed that every vicious and fighting warrior of the various tribes in California, Oregon, Idaho and Nevada are making their way to Jack's camp, as well as many from the Yainax reservation, where a portion of the Modocs, Snakes and Klamaths are now residing.

Says the Roseburg paper: "A rumor has been afloat for some time to the effect that trains on the railroad were only going to run once a week. This rumor, absurd as it is, has gained considerable credence, but for this we should not have noticed it. There is no ground, we are told by those who ought to know, for such a rumor. The trains will continue to run, as heretofore, daily, and work will be kept up on the road."

The Mountaineer says: "From a gentleman just in from the Fifteen Mile and Tygh Valley sections of our county, we learn that live stock of all kinds is flourishing. Mr. Joseph Beesley has found it necessary to feed his sheep but three days so far during the entire winter. All of our stock men say that this has been the mildest winter ever experienced by them, or even by the oldest inhabitant. We hope it may continue to be as pleasant."

The Roseburg Pantagraph has the following in relation to Major G. H. Sterling, father of Jas A. Sterling, of Oakland, who is now on a visit to the latter's home. The Major is on the retired list, and has been sixty-one years in the service of the United States. His first entree was made into the Columbia river fifty-three years ago. As one of the early pioneers, he will be welcomed by many friends in Oregon. As a participant in the three principal wars of our country, his reminiscences will be listened to with interest.

The Dallas Republican says: "It seems that the warlike and hostile conduct of the Indians on the Siletz Reservation is creating great excitement, amounting almost to a general panic among the farmers and whites who live near the Reservation. We are informed by Mr. W. D. Lewis, who recently returned from a trip to King's valley, that, notwithstanding the fact that some of the papers treat the affair very lightly, nevertheless, the farmers in that region are really alarmed at the hostile and unfriendly conduct of the Indians; and on account of the fears so entertained they have raised a company of men for their protection, in order that they might be prepared for any sudden outbreak."

The Mercury of the 25th says: The Governor, on Wednesday last, made out a list of lands embracing 1,840 acres, selected for Capitol building purposes, and caused the same to be transmitted to the La Grande Land Office for approval, said lands being located in that district. Also a list of the same class of lands embracing 641 30-100 acres, located in the Roseburg district. Under the Act of Congress admitting Oregon into the Union, ten sections of land were granted to the State to assist in the erection of public buildings. The last Legislature passed an Act appropriating the proceeds of the sale of those lands to assist in building our State Capitol, and hence the Governor's action in the matter. The remainder of the grant will be selected in a short time.

The editor of the Mercury was in the fight with the Modocs and in a letter to his paper says: "Our dead we left upon the field. The fog prevented us securing the bodies during the day, and when night came it was useless to look for them. One poor fellow, wounded, fell into a deep chasm, and in attempting to get him out two of his comrades were killed. It was certain death to attempt his rescue, and he was left their to die in that dismal place—unless the savage tomahawk put an end to his misery. The country is the roughest I have seen. Though we drove the Indians two miles over crag and chasm, awful to behold, we did not see a dozen of the red devils, so completely were they concealed. I do not believe there was a single one killed if so, it was by accident. From the best information I can obtain I should judge there were about 150 Indians engaged in the fight. I was fortunate enough to escape without a scratch though several times fired at. Consternation prevails among the settlers; as it is believed the victory they have won will embolden the Indians and cause them to commit fresh depredations."

The Farmer has the following in relation to agricultural matters in Marion county: The wheat sown last fall, now has covered the earth, and presents the growth and appearance of 20th of April. Early sown timothy extra fine. Lawns on early shrubbery and pasture grasses are six weeks forward of this date. The bees are sucking honey from willow blossoms. There has been no ice formed this month, and no frost except a very light one ten days ago. Farmers have been sowing grain on rolling lands for several weeks past, and garden lands are now being prepared, and some seeds are planted. Large crops of grain will be sown in Marion county this spring. Stock of all kinds look well. There has been much work done this winter in fencing, hacking down brush, grubbing and plowing and land. Except the little snap of cold weather here last November, we have had no winter yet. The mean temperature of last month was 38° above zero. This month will range perhaps at 40°.

The Corvallis Gazette has the following concerning a "land muddle" in Benton county: "In consequence of some misunderstanding or blunder somewhere about 240 acres of valuable land included in the farm known as 'Gird's Station,' 12 miles south of this place, has been seized by the east side railroad company and a patent received therefor. Two hundred acres belong to William Gird and 40 to George W. Hosack, of this place. As near as we can understand the matter stands thus: When the final proof was made upon this land under the 'Donation Act,' the Wallamet Valley and Southern Oregon were included in the Oregon City District. When the Roseburg District was created it cut this farm through the center, leaving one half in each district. Final proof had been regularly made upon the whole tract in the former district, and when the latter district was created the fact was not properly reported to that office, and hence it appeared upon the plat as unproved land, and was seized upon under the railroad grant. On last Monday the parties interested had the land surveyed, and will take legal steps to hold the same."

The San Francisco Chronicle of the 20th inst. says: Some months ago a large tract of land, including several rich ledges of excellent coal, lying near Freeport, on Coos Bay, was purchased by a joint stock company, who, after careful estimates, concluded that they could deliver the coal in this market by propellers carrying five hundred tons each much cheaper than they could by schooners or other vessels. Accordingly, Messrs. Chandler, Poole & Beadle, of this city, received to build several powerful propellers of the kind described especially for this new coal trade from Coos Bay, and the first has already been launched and is nearly completed. She now lies at the Lumbermen's Wharf, at the foot of First and Brannan streets, where she is receiving her coat of paint and finishing touches, preparatory to being placed on the Coos Bay route in about a week. After she was safely launched a few days since, fires were gotten up in her boiler and everything was made ready for the usual trial trip. Unfortunately, however, the first revolution of the shaft broke off two of the blades of her propeller, and she will again have to be placed in the dry dock to replace the broken propeller with a new one. This will be done in about a week—as soon as the carpenters and painters have finished their work. It is claimed that the proposed line of coal steamers will reduce the price of that fuel in this market from 25 to 30 per cent.

Meeting of Farmers.

From the Statesman.

In accordance with the notice heretofore published, Mr. Wm. Ruble of Polk county, met the farmers at the court house, in Salem, last Saturday, and delivered an address to them in relation to the various agricultural and commercial interests of the State and the necessity for an organization of some sort for self protection. After stating at some length the reasons why the farmers occupy a position less advantageous, in the community, than they deserve, he proposed a State, county and precinct organization, as a means of enabling them to act in concert and thus to maintain their mutual interests. This proposition was discussed somewhat in an informal way by various persons in the audience, when the sentiment appearing to prevail in its favor, it was proposed to organize the meeting by the election of proper officers and proceed with the business in hand in a regular way. The following is the Secretary's

REPORT OF THE PROCEEDINGS.

SALEM, Jan. 25, 1873.

According to published notice of Mr. Wm. Ruble, there was a meeting held at the court house, in which several farmers of this county participated.

Mr. J. V. B. Smith moved that T. L. Davidson be elected President, and J. Henry Brown temporary Secretary, which was agreed to.

The following resolutions were introduced by Mr. McNary, and after having been discussed at some length, by several persons, were adopted:

Resolved, That the farmers of each precinct of this county be requested to meet at their usual places of voting, on the 22d day of February next, at one o'clock P. M., and that each precinct be entitled to at least one delegate, and one for each ten who are willing to go into such an organization; and that said delegates be requested to meet in Salem on the first Saturday in March, to organize a County Board and adopt a Constitution, to be submitted to the precinct organizations, for their adoption.

Resolved, That the County Convention elect delegates to meet at Salem on the first Saturday in April to organize a State Board.

Mr. V. B. Smith moved that a committee of three be appointed to issue an address to the farmers of Oregon, asking them to organize precinct meetings in every county of the State, and to elect delegates to the county conventions. Carried.

The Chair appointed as said committee, Wm. Ruble, of Polk; T. W. Davenport, of Marion; and C. P. Burkhart, of Linn.

After some time spent in consultation the meeting adjourned.

T. L. DAVIDSON, President.
J. HENRY BROWN, Secretary.

DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

EASTERN DATES TO JANUARY 25.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Jan 24.—In the Senate Edmunds offered an amendment to the Appropriation Bill directing the Secretary of the Treasury to withhold all payments to any railroad company on account of freights and transportation of any kind to the amount of any payment made by the United States for interest upon bonds issued to any such company and not reimbursed.

Stewart made a point of order, that the amendment was new legislation and not in order upon the Appropriation bill

The President pro tem, Mr. Anthony, overruled the point

Edmunds advocated his amendment. It was necessary he said for the protection of the interests of the people, and if it violated in any way the legal rights of railroad companies they might seek redress through the Court of Claims.

Mr Merrill, of Maine, presented an amendment directing the President to take such measures as may be necessary to recover from the Pacific Railroad Companies the interest paid by the United States on bonds issued for the use of either of said roads, and conferring jurisdiction on the United States Court for the Southern District of New York to hear and determine the same, subject to appeal as in other cases.

Senate adjourned.

The Senate confirmed the appointment of Davis as Assistant Secretary of State.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on the Naval appropriation bill, but was post

The Daily Oregonian.

MONDAY MORNING, JANUARY 27, 1873

Well Said.

The Roseburg Pantagraph, one of the most consistent and able Republican journals in the State, thus remarks upon the conduct of the Bulletin which is now run as an organ for the disorganization of the Republican party for apparently no other reason than that only in such a way can its editor gratify his private revenge against one or two men in the party

For audacious cheek and supreme assurance, recommend us to the present editor of the Bulletin. It will be remembered that during the late political contest, he was principal editor of the OREGONIAN. That valuable paper being the leading Republican paper in Oregon, and the principal party organ, a member of course it was expected to support the party nominees, and defend the party principles. Instead of doing this however it has aided the platform adopted by the Republican party at Philadelphia, as not being Republican doctrine, and reflecting other than Republican sentiments, denied the principal planks in the platform and refused its support. For proof of this, we ask our readers to refer to files of the OREGONIAN issued just after the meeting of the Philadelphia Convention. He also took out the Republican platform and ticket, and neither was to be found in the paper when it changed hands. A man who will take such a course is hardly fit to teach party discipline, or undertake to manage the party reins. The indignation which the Bulletin claims is felt by the people of Douglas county toward the Pantagraph will, we think, be reflected upon the Bulletin, with double force, when the facts in the case are fully understood. The Pantagraph expressed a preference, which it had a perfect right to do, but after the party had decided, that decision was accepted. All we ask of the people is to compare the course of the two papers and see which is consistent.

This neat excoriation, though manifestly just in all other respects, does the editor of the Bulletin injustice on one point, namely, in regard to taking the National Republican Platform and Ticket out of the OREGONIAN. It is true they were taken out some ten days before the present editor of the Bulletin retired, and remained out till we took charge, when they were reinstated, but upon careful inquiry which we instituted immediately, we were satisfied that the Platform and Ticket had been left out in making up the paper without the knowledge or direction of the editor. Though we consider the present conduct of that gentleman incapable of defense or excuse, this correction should be made in justice to him. Taking the facts as they appeared at the time, however, and without explanation, the Pantagraph was certainly justified in the conclusion to which it arrived. A prominent Republican of Douglas County, and who is favorably known throughout the State, writes us confirming the statements of the Pantagraph in regard to the sentiment out there. He says:

The course of the Bulletin in waging war against the friends of Senator Corbett, who comprise a large majority of the Republicans of this county, is very generally condemned, and if that paper were a prominent one in the party, would be really damaging to the organization. Ignoring all policy and in contempt of the larger portion of our party, it seems to be wreaking an apparently personal spleen. It comes with poor grace from a journal originally established as an independent one in politics, and which but shortly prior to the late election, gave blows to the Republicans as well as to the Democratic party, now to assume to dictate to Republicans the course of party fealty. It was a Holladay organ then. It is none the less so now under the new regime."

"New regime" is good, unless it is used in a Pickwickian sense.

The Bulletin of Saturday makes a feeble and futile attempt to defend the political record of its master which we were forced, by its conduct, to call to the memory of the Republican party of the State. And now, driven to the wall upon all its accusations touching the public conduct of those Republicans whom it undertook to read out of the party because they would not give up their principles and obey the behests of the monopoly, it utters ominous threats that if "Mr Corbett's friends" do not lie low it will tell something awful. As to Mr. Corbett, we suppose his political and personal character needs no defense before the people of Oregon, especially when placed side by side with that of those who assail it. We have therefore refrained from noticing specifically any of the charges of the Bulletin against his course. We have shown that the accusation laid by the Bulletin against that large portion of the Republican party who preferred the election of some other person to that of Hon. J. H. Mitchell, as United States Senator, could be made with truth against himself and his little ring. We have done this in the interest of justice and of the Republican party. The principles of that party, if they are right, as we believe they are, are greater than Mr. Corbett or Mr. Mitchell, and for those principles we will contend though both of these gentlemen should suffer therefrom.

As to the Bulletin's threat, if it refers to the OREGONIAN, we have but to say, that, as we have never been in the blackmail business ourself, nor ever had occasion to submit to anything of the kind, we consider it rather late in life to begin now, so we decline to pungle. The Bulletin will therefore have to consider its own interests and wishes as to the course it will pursue.

A day or two since we referred to the death of Biela's comet. In February, 1872, several eminent German astronomers announced that a collision between this comet and our earth would occur in August of that year. And now it appears that on the evening of November 27, Professor Klinkerfues of Goettingen University telegraphed to the North German Gazette the occurrence of the collision on that evening. In this remarkable view, the learned Klinkerfues is sustained by Professor Galle of the University of Breslau, who expresses the opinion that the meteoric showers of that night which were seen from the leading observatories of Europe, consisted of fragments of Biela's comet. The radiating point of the meteors was in the foot of the constellation Andromeda, precisely the point where, according to other astronomers, the dissolution of the comet took place. Father Secchi of the Observatory at Rome, counted fourteen thousand "falling stars" in three hours on the night of November 27. "It sometimes seemed to be snowing," says the venerable astronomer. However absurd the Goettingen Professor's views may appear when judged by some of the schools, we are persuaded that the time when we could ridicule and jeer at "impossibilities" has long since passed. Gottinger may yet convince us that epizootics follow in the train or are the avant courriers of cometary disaster.

The death of Father Jandel, General of the Order of Dominicans, brings to mind the long and bitter controversy between Jandel and his nobler brother in the order, M. Lacordaire. The persistent endeavor of Father Jandel to assimilate the orders of Dominicans and Jesuits owed their defeat more to Lacordaire, perhaps, than to any other member of the society. These efforts, however, were continued up to the very day of the General's death, which occurred about four weeks since.

An Interesting Problem of Science

The recent destruction by fire of Barnum's Museum has elicited lively discussion of a new problem in Physics to wit: Can superheated steam occasion combustion? Fire Marshal McSpeaden of New York city, in a letter to the Tribune, assumes the affirmative, and declares that his official investigations into the above named are have confirmed theories he has long held. His position is disputed by several eminent engineers and the dispute grows warm. In support of his theory the Marshal cites the opinions of Geo. W. Plompton, Professor of Natural Philosophy in the Cooper Institute and Mr. Norman Ward, a distinguished scientist. To the question "What is super-heated steam" Prof. Plompton replies that "it is steam heated apart from water. Water is converted into steam at 212 degrees Fahrenheit. Apply as much additional heat to that as you choose, you get no superheated steam until there is no water remaining in the presence of the steam. But when steam has been drained of water and becomes dry, a further application of heat makes it superheated steam, and its temperature may then be increased indefinitely." He states that if water is brought in contact with superheated steam, an explosion is almost certain to ensue. On the other hand, several practical mechanics and engineers denounce the "amazing ignorance of the first principles of heat and steam" displayed in the Marshal's communication. As the process of heating factories and large public buildings by steam is rapidly coming into general use, the question becomes one of grave importance. To attest the sincerity of his belief Marshal McS. has proposed that if a suitable lecture room be obtained in New York City he will provide eminent scientific men who will elucidate the problem in the interests of science.

An eminent German Protestant and politician Herr Von Gerlach, of Prussia, has just published a pamphlet on "The Emperor and the Pope," which is exciting general comment throughout Europe. The writer denounces Prince Bismark, whom he accuses of having "debauched the conscience of a whole people." He is fearful of the future of the German Empire, maintaining that the grotesque union by force of so many diverse elements cannot be lasting. Her Von Gerlach condemns the decree of ostracism published by the Prussian Premier against the Jesuits, declaring that his policy will result in organizing more perfectly the various Roman Catholic orders. He also says that in the face of this revival of the Catholic church, German Protestants are becoming divided into parties more and more hostile. Herr Von Gerlach further thunders against the Protestant Deputies, who in the Reichstag have silently supported what he terms "these exceptional and capricious laws." The religious movement in Europe is fast taking shape as the grand disturbing element which shall one day lead in the new political dispensation. Even now the staunch loyalty of peace-loving Germany is threatened. We watch the slow process of events with quite as much interest as we now feel in the political drama of France. This new schism goes the length of displacing an older at the expense of consolidation under the Empire, perhaps.

The New York Times has discovered that the Tammany snake was but scotched, not killed. The most barefaced frauds, says the Times, were perpetrated in connection with the city armories, where enormous sums were paid for "repairs" which were never done, for "furniture" which was never furnished to them, and for "whitewashing" which they never saw. The Ring was overthrown in the fall of '71, but the opportunity for making corrupt bargains where the city was concerned did not depart with it. Re-leases and new leases of armories have been recently made on extravagant terms, some of which are now undergoing inquiry. For one unoccupied armory the county pays an annual rent of $11,000. For other armories the sums of $23,000, $21,000, $17,000 and $14,000 respectively. In a recapitulation it appears that the county of New York leases sixteen armories, for which the enormous aggregate of $192,900 is yearly paid.

The Utica (N. Y.) Herald of December 25th announces the death of Union College. Rich in money but poor in students, and weakened by a wrangle of years' duration among its students, it is to be transplanted bodily to the State capital, there to form a collegiate department for the several post graduate schools already flourishing there—the Albany Law School, the Albany Medical College and the Dudley Observatory.

It is no easy or pleasant thing for Union College to surrender its identity and evacuate the historic ground upon which it has flourished in the past. But its choice has seemed to lie between that and oblivion. In spite of the fact that the State of New York has nine institutions of learning, largely endowed and ably conducted, it is said that twenty-five per cent. of the students in the great New England institutions are natives of New York.

The London Times notices the departure from Sheerness of the Challenger, a steam corvette, which has been fitted out and despatched by the British Government on a voyage around the world. The object of this voyage relates chiefly to natural history, but also includes the determination of currents and a study of what may be called sub oceanic geography. One great design is to investigate the hidden regions of the Atlantic's bed. After spending twelve months in these labors the Challenger will go down to the great icebarrier at the edge of the Antarctic continent, and endeavor to abstract the secrets of that desolate region. Australia, New Zealand, the Coral Sea, Japan, the North Pacific Ocean and Northwest America will be visited in turn. It is to be hoped that the three years' cruise of the Challenger will result in valuable additions to Natural Science.

A correspondent from Alsea Bay says that place has a harbor about five miles long, and somewhat over a mile in width, and that the entrance to this harbor is quite as good as that to Yaquina Bay. The depth of water on the bar is stated at nine feet at low tide and fifteen at ordinary high tide. He says persons who have taken coasters into this harbor consider it a very safe entrance for vessels of the class that engage in the coast trade. The writer also states that the tide lands which lie vacant around the bay would make the best of dairy and vegetable ranches, but they are unfortunately situated with reference to market for their products. The Alsea river, which empties into the bay, is about fifty miles in length, and along its bottoms, which vary in width from half a mile to a mile in width, is a large amount of land that would make excellent homes for settlers.

The Eugene Journal crooketh "the pregnant hinges" It is No. 3, including the one in Washington Territory.

The following is the text of the Railroad Bill introduced by Hon Mr Shellabarger, in Congress last December: "A bill to amend an act entitled an act to facilitate commercial postal and military communication among the several States," approved June 15th, 1866.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the compensation authorized and contemplated by the second section of the act of the 15th of June, Anno Domini eighteen hundred and sixty six, entitled "An act to facilitate commercial postal and military communication among the several States," for the several descriptions of service named in said section, shall be charged at uniform rates per mile for the transportation of the same amount and description of freight, and the same description of passengers, and way passengers, and freights shall not be subjected to a higher rate of charge per mile than the lowest rates charged by the same line for the same service over any other part the said line, and any person or persons who shall be subjected to or demanded to pay any excessive charge in violation of the provisions of this act may recover from the party making the charge such excess as either demanded or paid, together with the costs and reasonable counsel fees, in any court of competent jurisdiction, provided, that the provisions of this act shall not prohibit any common carrier coming within its provisions from receiving just compensation for the necessary expense of loading and unloading way freights, and provided moreover that the provisions of this act shall apply to all common carriers in carrying passengers and freights on their way from one State to or through another State.

In answer to a request from the British Government the United States has sent the man of war Yantic to Zanzibar. The object of the expedition is the suppression of the slave trade in the dominions of the Imaum of Muscat. From the islands in the realm of the Imaum the Arabs send yearly, according to the representations of Great Britain, sixteen thousand slaves to Madagascar, the Persian Gulf and the Arabian Sea, while in capturing these, several hundred thousand are yearly slain. The Imaum has consented to the arrest of all slave traders with the exception of those engaged in trading between points in his own dominions. The difficulty seems to be that all claim to be local or coastwise traders.

The Spanish Cortez is agitating itself over the proposition to abolish slavery in Porto Rico. The Christian world would undoubtedly applaud the passage of such a decree by the Cortez, but it would appreciate quite as highly some manifestation on the part of that government of a disposition to enforce the law already in existence for the abolishment of slavery in Cuba. Little good does it do for the Spanish government to issue edicts against this species of barbarism while a few wealthy planters can render them nugatory by simply threatening to withdraw their support from the government in case the laws are enforced.

Roland, Boston correspondent of the Sacramento Union, says "the mention of Bret Harte's arrest in a Sunday paper drew out a communication from the arresting creditor in which he gives a brief statement of the affair, and vigorously defends his own actions in respect to the legal measures for the collection of a debt, after all others have failed. I hear that when the news reached New York one of Harte's creditors in that city took the alarm, and informed him that he must 'pony up' the amount of their bill, or he 'couldn't lecture that night at Steinway Hall.'"

The great reduction of rates on the lines of the Western Union Telegraph Company's lines, will be highly appreciated by the public, and especially the mercantile community, who have more occasion than others to use this means of correspondence. The highest rate under the new tariff will be $2 50 for ten words between the remotest offices.

The dispatches announce that Oscar, King of Sweden and Norway, will be crowned on the first day of May next.

Swamp Lands.

PROCEEDINGS BEFORE THE SURVEYOR GENERAL—STATE CLAIMS TO THE LAND.

The argument of this case came up for the consideration of the Surveyor General in this place last Monday, upon the approval of the surveys made last year of the swamp lands around the Klamath Lake by Messrs. Turner and Howard. It appears that there was a survey of those lands in 1858, and the object of the petitioners for the re survey in 1872 was to have included in that survey lands as arable which were excluded and held to be swamp lands by the survey of 1858. The State claimed that no re-survey of the lands could be made to impeach or obliterate a former survey, in the absence of fraud or mistake, and that the survey of 1872 could not be used for that purpose, as there is no pretense of fraud or mistake in the survey of 1858. The counsel for the State dwelt upon the character of the grant to the State, and the interpretation given to it by the courts of other States in dealing with the Arkansas act, now extended to Oregon; also opinions of officers of the government, and of the force and power of this grant. It was claimed that the resurvey was material, as showing the character of the lands surveyed, and by extending the government lines beyond the old survey, over swamp lands, it did not deprive the State of the right to those lands upon proof of their swampy character. This view gives the State more swamp lands by the last survey than by that of 1858, and in proof of the swampy character of the land, the State offered in evidence the field notes of the survey of 1858, the field notes of the survey of 1872, and extensive proof, also, all of which seemed to show that the land in question was swamp land. While the old survey is valuable to the State as far as it goes, the new one extends the area of swamp lands. Many authorities and opinions of eminent lawyers and Secretaries of the Interior were cited in support of the position of the State.—Eugene Guard.

CONCERT AT THE ASYLUM.—In pursuance of the invitation extended by the Superintendent of the Insane asylum, Dr. J. C. Hawthorne, the Portland brass band paid a visit to the institution Saturday evening to give a concert for the unfortunate inmates. The concert was given in the Chapel, which was erected last fall, and was attended at about 8 o'clock. No regular programme of music had been prepared for the occasion, but was arranged with the band and the leader of the former to discourse just such pieces as might be called for. The female patients occupied one side of the room, and the males the other, the middle side of the house was allowed to children, of which there were many present. The band played splendidly. One old lady chose "Old Hundred," which was solemnly and plaintively discoursed. Then "Yankee Doodle" was called for "Greenville," which was rendered in the proper strain. One old fellow, who had been playing pieces of sacred music were discoursed, then "Dixie," which the band rattled off with a will, much gusto and animation. No sooner was this piece rendered, than some one else, certainly not partial to political sentiments, called out "Yankee Doodle." After this was played, a number of waltzes, marches, etc., were discoursed for the edification of the audience. One hour and a half was very pleasantly and unprofitably passed. The patients were delighted, as many of them had not heard music since their confinement within the walls of the institution. To all it was a musical treat, and seemed to revive the mental and physical energies of the unfortunate beings of whom the audience was principally composed. The band will next concert the inmates conducted themselves in a most orderly decorum. At the conclusion of the exercises, the band were invited into the dining room where was spread a splendid collation. The occasion was one of interest to the inmates of the hand, the Superintendent and other officers of the institution, and special pleasure to the inmates.

FROM WARM SPRING.—Capt. Smith, Superintendent of the Warm Spring Reservation, arrived in this city on Saturday evening from the reservation via Dalles. Mr. Smith informs us that everything connected with the Warm Spring Reservation is moving smoothly along. The winter so far has proved quite mild, little snow having fallen thus far. Capt. Smith reports the Indians to be getting along very prosperously. An unusual religious interest has awakened among the Indians connected with the reservation. Meetings have been held frequently during the past month. On the reservation there are about 200 Indians who are members of the Christian faith. So great has been the interest these Indians take in spiritual matters that a large meeting house in which religious services are held—36x50 feet—is found insufficient to accommodate those who attend. They are also keen eagerners to acquire knowledge of literary pursuits. Religious services are held every Sunday, and also a Sunday school, which is in a very prosperous condition. The Sunday school commences at noon and continues about two hours. The interest of these Indians never flags or abating. The increase in attendance during the last few months is so marked that the agent has been compelled to add about twenty feet to the school building, and thus render the accommodations more adequate. The regular attendance at the Sunday school is quite large, being over one hundred. These pupils evince an aptitude in learning the various branches taught which would not be considered inferior to white children. Some have already attained a considerable proficiency in reading and writing. They are learning to speak the language with great fluency. In a few months a large addition to the school building will be erected on the reservation, 40 by 60 feet, and one and a half stories in height. The Indians are reported to be uncommon among the most docile of any tribe, who are generally peaceably disposed, and are rapidly adopting the ways of civilization.

THROWN FROM A HORSE.—An unfortunate Indian mounted a horse yesterday upon the Plank road. The animal had neither saddle nor bridle, the latter being nothing by which the rider could guide the animal, but a hastily improvised rope halter. The animal was the rider fairly landed on the ground, more than if started off at a furious rate. The unfortunate rider tugged at the halter, the faster the animal moved. The equestrian could not remain on the animal, but literally rode all over the back of the animal. When Front street was reached the animal commenced cutting the most extraordinary capers, pitching and plunging, and performing a succession of somersaults, alighting on the slippery pavement and rolling over several times. The rider was pitched from the animal's back about fifteen feet. He struck on the ground and sounded the depths of the muddy water in the ditch on the other side of the street. The mud and water proved more yielding than the Nisqually mud, and saved the equestrian a doctor's bill. At length picked himself out of the ditch, somewhat scared, slightly hurt and the muddiest looking man we have yet had the honor of looking at.

DROWNED.—A young man named Thomas Winters, who worked on the steamer Rival, was drowned a few days ago off the bar. The circumstances transpired at the time the tug was crossing the bark Rival to sea. After the tug had reached the open sea, and could manage the tug loosened from the vessel and steamed off. Capt. Hilton, the pilot, being still on board the Rival, a small boat was sent from the tug to the bark. This boat was manned by three men. The bark was reached in safety, the pilot left the boat and the party headed for the tug. When about fifty yards from the steamer a sea struck the small boat, raised her bow out of the water, and threw the occupants thereof into the sea. The accident was witnessed from the deck of the tug, which immediately steamed toward the scene. The men and fortunately succeeded in rescuing all but one, who sank just as a rope was thrown to him. The deceased was a young Scandinavian.

BODY FOUND.—The body of an unknown man was found a few days

CONCERT AT THE ASYLUM —In pursuance of an invitation extended by the Superintendent of the Insane asylum Dr J C Hawthorne the Last Portland brass band paid a visit to that institution Saturday evening to give a concert to the unfortunate inmates The concert was held in the Chapel which was erected last fall and commenced at about 8 o clock No regular programme of music had been prepared for the occasion It was arranged with the band and the inmate for the former to discourse just such pieces as might be called for The female patients occupied one side of the room, and the males the other Each side of the house was allowed to choose alternately One old lady chose 'Old Hundred' which was solemnly and plaintively discoursed Another called for "Greenville" which was also played in the proper strain One old fellow after several pieces of sacred music were discoursed asked for 'Dixie,' which the band rattled off with great gusto and animation No sooner was Dixie rendered than some one else certainly of opposite political sentiments, called out Give us Yankee Doodle' After the national air was played, a number of waltzes marches, quickesteps, etc, were discoursed for the edification of the audience One hour and a half was thus pleasantly and not unprofitably passed The inmates were delighted as many of them had not heard such music since their confinement within the walls of the institution To all it was a musical treat that seemed to revive the mental and spiritual energies of the unfortunate beings of which the audience was principally composed Throughout the concert the inmates conducted themselves with strict decorum At the conclusion of the exercises, the band were invited into an adjoining room where was spread a splendid cold collation The occasion was one of interest to the members of the band, the Superintendent and other officers of the Institution, and special pleasure to the inmates

FROM WARM SPRING —Capt Smith, Agent at the Warm Spring Reservation, arrived in this city on Saturday evening from the Reservation via Dalles Mr Smith informs us that everything connected with the Warm Spring Reservation is moving smoothly along The winter so far has proved quite mild but little snow having fallen thus far He reports the Indians to be getting along quite prosperously An unusual religious interest has been awakened among the Indians connected with the reservation Meetings have been held very frequently during the past month On the reservation there are about 200 Indians who are professors of the Christian faith So great is the interest these Indians take in spiritual matters that the large meeting house in which religious exercises are held—30x40 feet—is found insufficient to accommodate those who attend They manifest a keen eagerness to acquire knowledge of the Scriptures Religious services are held every Sabbath and also a Sunday school, which is in a most prosperous condition The Sunday school often commences at noon and continues until sunset, the interest of these Indians never for a moment abating The increase in attendance for several months is so marked that the agent has determined to add about twenty feet to the end of the building, and thus render the accommodations more adequate The regular attendance at the day school is quite large, being over sixty pupils These pupils evince an aptitude in the several branches taught which would not be discreditable to white children Some have already made considerable proficiency in reading and writing, and are learning to speak the language with ease and fluency In a few months a large school house building will be erected on the reservation 30x40 feet, and one a half stories in height Crimes are reported to be uncommon among these Indians, who are generally peaceably disposed and are rapidly adopting the ways of civilization

THROWN FROM A HORSE.—An unwieldy equestrian mounted a horse yesterday up Pine street The animal had neither saddle nor bridle, there being nothing by which the rider could control it but a hastily improvised rope halter No sooner was the rider fairly landed on the animal's back, than it started off at a furious rate The more the rider tugged at the halter, the faster the horse moved The equestrian could not retain his seat but literally rode all over the back of the horse When Front street was reached the animal lost its footing on the slippery pavement and rolled over several times The rider was pitched forward about fifteen feet He struck on his head and sounded the depths of the muddy gutter on the other side of the street. The mud fortunately proved more yielding than the Nicholson blocks and saved the equestrian a doctor's bill He at length picked himself out of the gutter badly scared, slightly hurt and the muddiest individual we have yet had the honor of looking upon

DROWNED —A young man named Caleb H Winters, who worked on the steam tug Astoria, was drowned a few days ago off the bar The sad occurence transpired at the time the tug was towing the bark Rival to sea After the bark had reached the open sea, and could manage herself the tug loosened from the vessel and drifted off Capt Hilton, the pilot, being still on board the Rival, a small boat was sent from the tug to the bark This boat was manned by three men The bark was reached in safety, the pilot taken on board and the party headed for the tug When about fifty yards from the steamer a sea struck the small boat, raised her bow out of the water and threw the occupants thereof into the sea The accident was witnessed from the deck of the tug which immediately steamed toward the drowning men and fortunately succeeded in rescuing all save one, who sank just as a rope was thrown to him The deceased was a young Scandinavian BODY FOUND —The body of an unknown man was found a few days ago opposite Astoria From the advanced stages of decay in which the body was discovered it had probably been floating in the river several weeks The remains were those of a middle aged man, with a sandy beard on the chin and dark hair The deceased was dressed in a mixed colored pair of cotton pants, a blue flannel shirt, brown colored jacket, and had on a heavy pair of brogans, well worn. A small purse was found in one of his pockets containing $25 50 in gold and silver On the person could be found no papers by which the body might be identified An inquest was held, after which the remains were buried near by on the beach above tide mark.

"HANDS AND HEARTS"—One evening during the past week Dr A L Lindsley, of this city, delivered a lecture at Olympia on the above subject An exchange from that place speaks as follows concerning the lecture "After a rapid criticism of the Darwinian theory in which he showed that many of its conclusions are not justified by the data upon which they are founded, the learned lecturer went on to describe the many uses of the human hand and their ultimate relationship to the feelings of the heart Our space will not permit of an extended notice of this truly able lecture, which abounded with eloquent passages, and well sustained the wide spread reputation of the author"

LAUNCH DELAYED —The launch of the hull of the new steamer at the upper sawmill did not take place last Saturday as announced The cause of the delay is owing to the fact that the contractor has been unable to obtain timber from the mill as the escape of logs caused a suspension of operations. Great credit is due the contractor for the manner and speed with which the work has progressed under all the disadvantages which have attended the operations thus far The exceeding inclemency of the weather has done much to deter the work The hull has been painted and the deck caulked Every effort is being made to have the launch take place on next Tuesday

WITH FLYING COLORS —The bark Mendelssohn was towed down the river yesterday morning by the steamer Dixie Thompson This vessel will be taken down below St Helens bar where the remainder of the cargo will be received This vessel is drawing seventeen feet of water A large number of our German citizens repaired to the wharf before the departure of the vessel to bid a pleasant farewell to the officers and crew As the bark swung out into the stream a salute of several guns were fired from the deck in recognition of the many courtesies shown the officers and the crew during their brief sojourn at this port

DEPARTURE OF SENATOR MITCHELL —Hon J H Mitchell took his departure for San Francisco on the Ajax, which sailed hence last Saturday An immense crowd collected on the steamship to witness the departure of the steamer and bid a pleasant farewell to the honorable gentleman In accordance with previous arrangements a salute of thirteen guns were fired in honor of the event Amid the congratulations of friends, waving of handkerchiefs and booming of the battery the steamer swung her black and unwieldy bulk out in to the stream and steamed away with colors flying

OUT AGAIN —Jefferson the fellow who has been a resident of the county jail at intervals for many months is again at liberty He has just served out a term of confinement at the county jail where he was sent some months ago for stealing some clothes On being liberated one of the first things which Jefferson did, was to go round to several saloons and by representing himself as deputy Sheriff he succeeded in humming a number of free drinks before the imposition was detected Should any clothes lines be robbed, it would not be difficult to locate the thief

AFTER THE MODOCS —Two detachments of United States troops belonging to the 4th Artillery, arrived in this city from Fort Stevens on Saturday evening They were reported at once to Gen Canby and were transferred to the east side and sent to the Modoc country If men and ammunition continue to be forwarded to the front as lively as they have for a few weeks past, the prospects for making things warm for these pesky red skins are flattering

'OLD FOLKS' CONCERT —Our Vancouver correspondent informs us that this entertainment, given at Metropolis Hall in that place on Thursday evening last, was a complete success The object of the entertainment was the purchase of a new organ for the use of the Episcopal Church The hall was densely crowded, the performance was excellent and the amount realized sufficient to pay for a fine organ

Prostration Practice

Luckily for the sick the idea that it is necessary to reduce their bodily strength in order to cure them is fast dying out Modern science recognizes the fact that disease is of itself more than sufficiently depressing to body and mind and does not need to be assisted in its inroads upon the vital energy of the system by violent purgations and debilitating mixtures Prostration is, in short, played out" and the practitioners who still cling to it are so few and far between that they cannot, like their predecessors of the same fatal school who flourished half a century ago fill the graveyards with their victims The introduction of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in 1852 was the heaviest blow that the old practice of depletion has ever received and from that time to the present as the celebrity of the great vegetable invigorant has increased the gurging blistering bleeding, water gruel practice has declined The effect of this famous preventive and remedy is strengthen, build up regulate and tranquilize not to weaken, break down and violently disturb the system It is a tonic alterative and nervine with a pure stimulant as its propelling and distributing agent This stimulant diffuses the curative and self sustaining elements of the medicine through the whole organization, and brings them into contact with the sources of disease Hence its cures of indigestion constipation bilious complaints, nervousness languor, debility low spirits malarious disorders &c are complete and the rough and ready protection against the ailments caused or aggravated by cold and damp it has no equal

PLANTATION BITTERS!

S. T.—1860—X.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the shoot-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

THE TERRITORIES.

Washington Territory is now "in funds," and is paying warrants that have been on interest for three years.

Only six soldiers are now at the garrison at Vancouver, except those at the hospital and those connected with the band.

Four parties are out surveying public lands in Washington Territory, all of whom are engaged along the shore of the Sound.

The Register says Lewis River, W T., has water power enough in a distance of 25 miles to run all the mills in Massachusetts

Some one attempted to fire the garrison at Vancouver last Tuesday night by piling a lot of straw mattresses together and applying a match to them. Only timely discovery prevented a conflagration

The snow has nearly all disappeared to Yakima Valley and the people there are enjoying a succession of fine spring days. There has been no feeding done to amount to anything this winter, and cattle, horses and sheep are looking remarkably fat and fine.

The Arizona correspondent of the Mountaineer says: "This is a very dry country. I believe there is as much water in the Desobutes in your county as there is in the Colorado, and this drains a part of California, Nevada, all of Arizona and all of Utah that is drained, and a small portion of New Mexico and Sonoma."

The Vancouver paper is very much offended because some gentlemen at that place have been sending accounts of matters of public interest to the Portland dailies before they were published in the home paper. Now, that is too bad, really We don't see, though, how our neighbor will help himself, as we find nothing in the code of law, morals or newspaper etiquette, to prevent the publication of any such matters at any time if they are legitimate.

It is reported the largest specimen of fossil vegetation ever discovered has recently been found near Denver, Colorado. It is in two sections, measuring together fifty feet in length. One section is thirty-nine feet long, with a diameter at the largest end of about twenty-two feet. The other is twenty one feet long and is nine feet in diameter midway from the ends. The tree is now stone and said to be as hard and flinty as porphyry. Some of it appears like agate, finely veined and delicately tinted, while other portions are as white as snow, showing a polished surface like chalcedony.

The Kansas Senatorial Election.

A Washington dispatch of the 18th instant says:

The Senate Committee on Elections this morning resumed their investigation into the election of Senator Caldwell of Kansas. Ex-Governor Carney was examined at great length. He corroborated the testimony previously given by Samuel T. Smith, Caldwell's partner, to the effect that at a private interview between Caldwell, Smith and himself, Caldwell offered him (Carney) $15,000 if he would withdraw from the contest as Senator. This offer he soon afterward accepted, and signed a paper pledging himself that he would in no case become a candidate, in return for which he (Carney) received Smith's note at thirty days for $10,000, given unconditionally, and Smith's duebill for $5,000, conditioned on Caldwell's election. The consideration named in the agreement was for expenses incurred and assistance to be rendered by Carney. Smith's note for $10,000 was paid Carney at maturity, and the due-bill was paid last spring. After the election, and while Caldwell was on his way to Washington to take his seat in the Senate, Carney met him in a railway car. Caldwell told witness that he was aware that his due-bill had not been paid, and that as soon as he got to Philadelphia he would remit to witness the $5,000 to pay it. Caldwell did not keep this promise, but spoke to Carney on the subject four or five times during the summer, and just before he came to Washington the next winter he told Carney that he would soon arrange to get some money from the Kansas Pacific Railroad, with which to pay the due-bill. Caldwell said that the Kansas Pacific Company had promised to pay him some money to assist in his election; that they had not yet done so; that so far as he was concerned they would get no legislation until they kept their promise and paid him the money. Witness testified that during the Senatorial canvass, one day P. J. Anderson, an employee of the Railroad Company, came to Smith, in his presence, and asked for $7,000 to be used in the canvass. Witness indorsed Smith's check for that amount, in order that Anderson might get it cashed. Witness believed Anderson got and used the money for political purposes, in Caldwell's interest. Caldwell told witness that he paid J. F. Leggett $1,000 for his vote. Caldwell once stated to witness that he (Caldwell) would win if it cost him $250,000. Subsequently Caldwell told witness that his election had cost him over $60,000. Caldwell having told witness that he felt very grateful to him and his friends, and would do what he could for them, several members of the Legislature made a written application to Caldwell, through Carney, for various offices. On one occasion, when witness presented Caldwell such a paper, Caldwell took out a memorandum book, and after referring to it said: "I don't owe that man anything. I paid that man for his vote." No member of the Legislature had then received any office from Caldwell, witness therefore knew of no other way by which the person referred to by Caldwell could have been paid except by money.

Carney's cross-examination was postponed on account of Caldwell's illness.

James H. Snead, member of the Kansas Legislature, gave evidence that one Hammond proposed the sale of his (Snead's) vote to Caldwell for $4,000, the amount to be divided. They went together to Levi T. Smith on the subject, but Smith was very busy and they did not talk with him.

Goat Island Again.

A Washington dispatch of the 20th says: "Stanford failed to strengthen the Goat Island scheme at the meeting of the Military Committee, where he appeared, supported by Sargent and Stewart. Cole and Casserly asked a few questions, which he answered so unsuccessfully that the committee must look elsewhere for reasons in support of the bill. He was unc:andid throughout—a great friend of San Francisco; sorry she don't understand it; took the position of a philanthropist persecuted by the people he was trying to serve; would be glad if the terminus was at San Francisco, but as it could not be he wanted to get to the nearest practicable point. He charged that the agreement to abandon the Goat Island bill and go to Mission Bay was broken by the Supervisors' amendment, which forever compelled the road to reach the bay by a route fifteen miles longer than necessary. Besides, a wall about the bay had been laid out with streets so as to render it unfit for railroad purposes. He denied that the Central Pacific ever had any Credit Mobilier. He was also guilty of many similar evasions, especially regarding the probable injury to San Francisco by the Goat Island scheme. On the latter point the committee asked many questions. Stanford skillfully avoided anything tending to disclose his real scheme for great depots at San Antonio Creek. He admitted that of the hundreds of thousands of tons of wheat, delivered by the railroad this season, nearly all left San Francisco harbor on shipboard, without any special port charges, wharfage or other tolls; that the railroad already has safe accommodations at the end of the Oakland wharf for nearly a thousand tons of merchandise; that there is a depth of a mile of water forty-three feet deep at Goat Island for the accommodation of ships; that although the cost of transhipping from Goat Island to San Francisco designed for San Francisco must be collected by the company as part of the freight tariff, and that therefore there is no material gain to commerce in a reduction of expenses on goods deliverable to the city, whether transhipped at the inland br at Oakland wharf. The company owned the shoals near Goat Island, and intended to build there all the warehouses necessary for temporary storage. Oakland wharves, said he, need a renewal every seven years. He failed to answer the question why the piles were not sheathed. He admitted an agreement for the Ravenswood compromise, said the Mission Bay property is seventeen hundred feet from deep water.

Mulkner replied ably, saying some necessary things, which the Senators probably could not, Sargent's recklessness in supporting the monopoly is best illustrated by his specific misstatements, among others, that the late election was an expression in favor of the cession of Goat Island.

When the committee adjourned, Stewart and Sargent farried to carwig the members.

All the current indications are favorable to an easier money market during the Spring months. According to all accounts very large amounts were disbursed during the first week of the present month at the principal money markets in the East. A commercial writer at New York on the 15th says: "As we have begun to realize that we are fairly under way in the business of the new year, we begin to experience some relief from the protracted monetary pressure, and there is an more cheerful feeling in commercial circles. It is not probable that wealthall have anything like extreme ease for some weeks to come, possibly not till the spring trade is well advanced, yet the acute pressure is safely through with, and borrowers may be assured that they have seen the last of such spasms as have marked the last two months. The January dividends, now in process of distribution, have largely increased the supply of loanable funds, and call loans have been placed freely at the legal rate, with exceptions at coin interest, and also one per cent. below the legal rate on Government bond collateral. There is quite a large drain of currency from the interior, which aids materially in swelling the deposits of the Banks, and there is in consequence a readier sale for prime mercantile paper at 9@10 ₱ cent. The cable also reports returning ease in the European money markets, which must lead to an early revival of trade on both sides of the Atlantic. The eighty or ninety millions to be released this month by Germany is expected to lead to a plethora, and with the world at peace, an era of unwonted activity in trade seems to be at hand. With American credit fully restored, there is every indication that more foreign capital will this year be invested in wealth-producing American enterprises than in any previous year

Co-operation.

We find in our exchanges, especially those from the Western and Mississippi Valley States, frequent mention of the advantages of the system of co-operative industry, a principle which is making rapid strides in England, is now being applied extensively to farming there It has always been applied, more or less, in rude forms, to farming in the Western States, and it is surprising that the advantages which farmers derive from mutual assistance and co-operation in gathering harvests, &c, should not have suggested the still greater benefits to be derived from a more extended application of the principle. If, for example, the capital and labor now squandered in building houses and barns and outbuildings and fences, and in purchasing machinery, implements and stock for each individual farm of half-a-dozen lying side by side in a given neighborhood were combined on the co-operative principle, immensely greater results would be accomplished at a great saving of expenditure of money, time and labor. The world is coming to this by and bye, in all departments of human industry, and a splendid opportunity is offered for the application of the principle by some of the farmers in different parts of our State, which we hope will not be neglected.

Pacific Coast Freights.

A leading importer of San Francisco recently wrote to an English house with reference to the rates of freight prevailing between this coast and the United Kingdom, alleging that they ought to be moderate in view of the good outward freights hence. In reply, the correspondent stated that the prospect of moderate rates to this port was slim, so long as the port charges here were so high, asserting that he had heard of instances where the cost of a ship of 1,000 tons in this port had been £2,000, or $10,000. The San Francisco Bulletin in regard to this correspondence says: "Such cases may have occurred, but they are decidedly exceptional. They are undoubtedly too high. We simply wish to disabuse the minds of those who entertain impressions like the correspondent referred to. The disbursements of a ship of 1,000 tons register while in port, on her inward and outward, usually average from $6,000 to $7,000. The amount varies somewhat according to the length of stay in port. In no ordinary case, however, do the disbursement expenses of a ship of that size exceed $7,000. Of course, if there be extensive repairs or litigation to attend to, the amount is larger. Under ordinary circumstances, where the disbursements of a ship in port exceed the sum named, it would be well to examine the accounts of the captain. There is one offset to our high port charges, and that is the quick despatch which vessels receive here. This has been especially notable during the past season. An examination of a number of vessels gives a range of stay in port varying from 10 to 45 days, the average for the list being 35 days. We think this a fair average of the 200 vessels that have arrived and cleared in the last six months; and we doubt whether there be another port in the world that can present a similar record of quick despatch."

The Wheat Market.

There are still considerable quantities reaching tidewater, but principally that purchased in the interior and stored to await transportation. But few sales are being made, though some advices from the valley indicate a freer disposition to sell than prevailed at the beginning of the present weeks. The Corvallis Gazette of to-day says of the market at that place: "Up to last Wednesday, since our last issue, the price paid was 75c@80 per bushel On that day Dr. Bayley, who is buying for parties below, offered 79 cents per bushel, for a large lot —several thousand bushels—which was refused That evening he received word by telegraph to drop down to 70 cents." Our own market exhibits no change, and we repeat our quotations at $1 70 per cental, with an apparent confidence on the part of buyers that the price will settle at about these figures. However, we think that if a number of vessels to arrive should all be here at or near the same time, an advance might be made to secure cargoes; but even this prospect is, not a certain one at all. The Reporter of the morning says

Exporters appear careless about securing parcels, and will not; so they say, bid over $1 70 for small parcels, but for large available parcels an advance will be paid. At present prices we can safely look for few shipments from the Walla Walla and Umatilla to come forward. The surplus in the Walla Walla and Umatilla valleys is reported to be quite large—the bulk of which, we are informed, will be shipped in this city if prices are favorable, or if they do not, at not much below $1 60 per cental. At the time prices advanced so high, about two weeks since, we are informed that nearly all the small dealers in the interior made purchases, expecting higher prices to rule—their purchases they still have on hand and would be willing to accept a lower figure than paid. From the San Francisco and other markets we learn that only a moderate business is doing, which will be sent to the California Market Our exporters wish to sustain Oregon's reputation abroad and only ship that which will not take from her reputation. The E Britain Bark Barracuta and ship Whittington are on the berth. The Polar Mendelssohn will follow. The Victoria Cross and Illoine will discharge and receive quick dispatch, as cargoes are secured. These were few sales during the week, and consequently we can only report 4,000 centals on private terms, but quotable at $1 70, and 4,000 centals at $1 70 The surplus Wheat yet remaining in the interior would is quite large—some place its value, delivered here, near $1,000,000, calculating that present prices are likely to rule. We do not expect that the surplus Wheat yet held in the interior will be disposed of by the next harvest, but we place the amount that will yet be distributed for Wheat at about $750,000.
